

ARNBC LAUNCHES 'NETWORK LEADS' PROJECT

VANCOUVER – The Association of Registered Nurses of British Columbia (ARNBC) is inviting RN volunteers to become ambassadors for the Association with the launch of its innovative new Network Leads Project.

The Project was created in response to input received during the 2012 consultation process, and will actively support professional nursing practice and policy networks in the many different settings and communities where B.C. nurses live, learn, work and volunteer. ARNBC is committed to engaging with all B.C. nurses in ways that build trust and transparency through effective, two-way communication.

Any B.C. Registered Nurse interested in becoming a network lead and actively participating in our dynamic, growing Nursing Association is welcome to attend one of the information sessions listed below or contact us directly at admin@arnbc.ca to learn more about this exciting new role.

More details on the project can be found at <http://www.arnbc.ca/images/pdfs/network-leads/ARNBC-Network-Leads-Key-Messages.pdf>.

To learn more about upcoming information/orientation sessions, please visit <http://www.arnbc.ca/images/pdfs/network-leads/ARNBC-Instructions-dates-times-for-sessions.pdf>.

-30-

Further information:

admin@arnbc.ca

604.737.1304

-0-