

B.C. registered nurses & nurse practitioners take a stand at home and nationally

From left, Joy Peacock, federal Health Minister Rona Ambrose, Julie Fraser and BSN student Jessy Dame met in Ottawa to discuss home health care for seniors.

To learn more about the advocacy work of CNA and ARNBC, please visit cna-aiic.ca and arnbc.ca

ARNBC executive director Joy Peacock and president Julie Fraser were in Ottawa with CNA CEO Anne Sutherland Boal, president Karima Velji and other members of CNA's board to share concerns about home health care for seniors with MPs and senators. Specifically they asked for:

1. Standards across Canada for home health care that support seniors and healthy aging
2. More support for Canadians who provide care for aging relatives by making the existing Family Caregiver Tax Credit refundable
3. Expansion of the New Horizons for Seniors Program to support healthy and active aging

CANADIAN
NURSES
ASSOCIATION

Association of Registered Nurses
of British Columbia